

Workplace Violence Prevention

Managing the Unthinkable

“Employers have a legal and ethical obligation to promote a work environment free from threats and violence...”

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

The U.S. Department of Labor reports that every year, a staggering two million people in the United States are victimized by some form of non-fatal workplace violence. Statistics further estimate that 1,000 homicides annually are attributed to violence in the confines of the work environment.

As an employer, you have critical roles to play in preventing workplace violence.

Breakdowns in your prevention programs can result in economic loss, possible lawsuits, and liability costs, among a wide range of other negative impacts. Let Lowers Risk Group serve as your guide to managing the unthinkable and reducing the risks of workplace violence in your organization.
